President's Message

President's message

Here we are embarking on the 27th consecutive year of hosting an annual carving competition- one of the longest-running in Canada and certainly amongst the best on the continent. The dates are April 6 & 7, 2013. Our lineup of workshops remains impressive with the likes of renowned artists Peter Sawatzky and Tom Park. If you want the experience of learning how to make clay models from one of the best bronze sculptors on the continent you'll want to register for Peter's one day workshop on April 5 (see workshop details in this newsletter). We are fortunate to have been able to have Peter judge for us for 25 years, and are pleased to be able to feature him as our keynote speaker at the April 6 awards banquet. Peter will deliver an illustrated presentation on the creation of a sculpture from conception to completion and showcase a number of his works. Tom's three day workshop on carving a miniature American white pelican filled up in less than 24 hours of being announced by Lee Valley Tools. However the good news is that you can still benefit from Tom's carving and painting expertise by enrolling in the Orca workshop Prairie Canada is running at the Elmwood East Kildonan Active Living Centre January 12 & 13 (details enclosed).

As you can see by the lineup of ALC workshops outlined in this newsletter we have stepped up our efforts to offer a variety of interesting courses for traditional and bird carvers at a reasonable cost. We are using workshop revenue to help fund the show. You can help us in this regard by taking a course or better yet selling a book of raffle tickets on the three excellent carvings being offered this year (details enclosed).

I once again encourage you to support the show by purchasing a Prairie Canada pattern book for a novice carver. You can get them from Tom Park or me or through retailers listed in the newsletter.

I would be remiss in failing to acknowledge the remarkable efforts of your board of directors past and present in keeping your show relevant and exciting. I have been with the Association since its inception and the level of commitment from board members is always remarkable. The current board is listed at the back of the newsletter- be sure to let them know how much you appreciate their efforts. We are always looking for new board members and new ideas- so if you know of anyone who would like to join our ranks please let me know.

In closing I should mention that the Prairie Canada spread in 2012 Competition published by Wildfowl Carving Magazine is as striking as ever. The feature carver profiled in our submission is Larry Vanderhyde. If you would like to see the best of the best carvings for 2012 order a copy at www.wildfowl-carving.com. The publication is usually out by early March.

Keep your tools sharp and see you at the competition.

Ted Muir
